Increasing the participation of people with disabilities in international exchange

Established in 1995, the goal of the National Clearinghouse on Disability and Exchange is to increase the participation of people with disabilities in the full range of international educational opportunities.

The National Clearinghouse on Disability & Exchange is sponsored by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the U.S. Department of State and administered by Mobility International USA.

Since 1981, Mobility International USA (MIUSA), a nonprofit, disability-led organization, has been working to empower people with disabilities around the world through international exchange and international development.
